HIGHWAYS BLOCKED IN OUTLAW SEARCH

Matt Leach of Indiana State Police Believes Brady, ther Gangsters Hiding in Area Near Lafayette; Chicago Road Watched by Trio

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 13.—(UP)—State police today blocked every exit from a huge area in which they believed Alfred Brady, imitator of gunman John Dillinger, and his two fellow fugitives were trapped.

Airplanes and automobile patrols were to penetrate the area today in an attempt to chase the fugitives into the hands of heavily-armed patrols which guarded highways and by-paths leading from the district.

State Police Capt. Matt Leach said he believed Brady, Clarence Lee Schaffer and James Dalhove were in the district of 25 miles northeast of Lafayette. The area included Tippecanoe, White, Carroll, Clinton and Cass counties. Logansport and Lafayette are the only major cities in the district.

Most Since Dillinger

The manhunt brought the most complete concentration of police forces since the Dillinger chase. All three fugitives were considered desperate and police officials feared a gun battle would precede their capture.

Brady, leader of the gang which is accused of two killings and several daring holdups in Indiana and Ohio, led Dalhove and Schaffer in a daylight escape from the Hancock county jail where they were awaiting trial for the slaying of Richard Rivers, Indianapolis police sergeant.

Brady has announced his intention to make the Dillinger gang "look like a bunch of hicks."

Leach, who fought the terror of Dillinger's early escapades with machine guns and high-powered ammunition, said Brady's gang is worse.

"It is the worst outfit we've ever known," Leach said. "The Dillinger gang was crafty and thought its way out of tight corners. This bunch lacks brains and shoots its way through them."

Two forays convinced police that Brady, Dalhove and Schaffer fled northeastward from Greenfield toward Lafayette—and Chicago—yesterday. A man invaded the farm home of Mrs. Haskell Rennick, demanded money, and beat her when she refused. Mrs. Rennick later identified Schaffer's picture.

L. C. Casey reported that a man attempted to stop his car on a country road north of Lafayette with bullets. He believed the man had two companions but could not describe them because he drove too fast to look closely.

Airplane Used

Leach, informed of the reports, mustered his state officers in the area. An airplane flew over the district but was unable to spot the men. Leach also was perplexed by failure to sight the car which the trio commandeered for their flight from Greenfield or another which they were believed to have stolen in Indianapolis.

He was convinced, however, that the men were in the district.

Farmers and rural residents who learned of the gang's proximity by newspaper and radio barred their doors for the night and kept firearms handy.

Progress of the hunt indicated the men had fled through Indianapolis, which they made their headquarters during their early operation.

ARMED BANDITS ESCAPE DRAGNET IN COUNTY AREA

Two armed bandits who held up The Budget Loan Co., downtown Lancaster firm, Monday afternoon, slipped through a dragnet set for them by state, city and county officers of central Ohio.

The last positive report of the bandit car was received from Walnut township by Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver and Bob Armstrong.

The deputies were checking all cars on Route 188, the Ringgold pike. William Hall, farmer living west of Walnut Postoffice, told the officers he had passed the bandit car parked along the side of the road when he started for Circleville. He described the car and the occupants, but when officers concentrated in that district they found no trace of the car.

Later in the afternoon officers received a report from Earl Reid, who lives in that district, the car had been seen by Mrs. Reid about 2 p. m.

Local men who took part in the search were Police Chief William McCready and Patrolmen Carl Radcliff and Fred Fitzpatrick; Clarence Francis, game officer; Sheriff Charles Radcliff and his deputies, Miller Fissell, Earl Weaver and Bob Armstrong; Frank Goff, county juvenile officer, and Abe Greenlee.

AFRICAN FILMS PRESENTED FOR KIWANIS CLUB

Kiwanians, their wives and friends numbering 61 persons, enjoyed an excellent meeting in the parish house of the Williamsport Methodist church Monday evening.

John H. Dunlap Sr. and other members of the club residing in Williamsport were in charge. The entertainment consisted of group singing with Hilaire Haacker at the piano, and interesting motion pictures taken in South Africa by Mr. and Mrs. Franz Stone, of Columbus, friends of the Dunlap family.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone were present to show the pictures and to explain them. The pictures were taken while they were in Africa recently.

Four reels, showing life among the natives, government buildings, Victoria falls, and wild animals, proved of much interest. The program followed a chicken dinner served by the missionary society of the church.

CROWDS TOLD OF 'FED' AID

President Visits in Kansas for 90 Minutes

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 13.—(UP)—President Roosevelt told a Kansas audience today that he did not believe Kansas would have survived the depression in such splendid shape had it not been for the assistance and cooperation of the federal government.

Using the home state of Gov. Alf M. Landon, his Republican opponent, as an example, Mr. Roosevelt lashed out boldly at critics of the New Deal's program of relief and social security. He charged the Republican leadership was "even trying to bring fear into the firesides of America."

Locals Federal Aid

"I do not seek to discuss with you the pros and cons of your local government, or of your state government, and in Kansas, you know more about that than I do," he said. "Let me say only, and in very simple terms, that I do not believe that Kansas would have pulled through the difficult problems of the last four years as splendidly as it has, had it not been for federal cooperation and federal assistance in many fields of your endeavor."

He told his listeners during an hour and a half visit that if they did not think the Administration was right in giving this assistance that they must, if logical. Ask that every state in the union set itself up as an individual entity for the solution of all problems, except maintenance of the army, navy and transaction of foreign affairs.

"Whisperers Hit

Mr. Roosevelt prefaced his remarks by one of the most direct attacks on the Republican leadership that he has employed in the campaign. He talked of "whispering ghosts" and "stalking booth men." He charged the Republican leadership with bringing on the economic crisis of 1932 and with attempting now to sabotage his broad program of security for all.

By visiting troop meetings he expects to be able to offer assistance to scout leaders so that all troops will be functioning effectively and serving boys most satisfactorily.

DEATHS CLIMBING IN AREA

Many Fertile Acres Inundated as River Goes Higher

BODIES MISSING

Red Cross, Territory, Rush Relief

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 13.—(UP)

—The Arnedo and Agno dykes on the rampaging Pampanga river burst tonight, flooding thousands of acres in fertile central Luzon, and adding new deaths and damage to the mounting toll of destruction in one of the greatest typhoon sieges of recent Philippine history.

After withstanding four days of pounding, the dykes gave way under pressure of the roaring waters which rose to record heights in the Pampanga, one of the principal waterways of the island.

The death list, already over 100—with hundreds more missing and feared dead—grew hourly as the muddy waters swept through the crumbling river banks and through the tiny villages of the province.

Dwellings Destroyed

The inundation destroyed hundreds of nipa shacks — the fragile dwellings of Luzon native farmers — and further crippled communications which have been paralyzed since Friday by gales, driving rains and floods.

Damage to agriculture, already reaching the point where residents of several northern provinces are facing famine, continued to mount as the floods destroyed rice and other staple crops of "the granary of the Philippines."

Elpidio Quirino, commonwealth secretary of the interior, released provincial emergency funds for use in aiding the stricken areas.

Red Cross and other relief workers in the area reported thousands of persons were homeless.

The Commonwealth Customs bureau reported that a government boat sank in heavy seas between Zamboanga and the Negros islands. Fifteen persons aboard saved themselves. It was not learned whether there were any fatalities in the shipwreck.

Commonwealth airplane pilots made survey flights over the storm area to determine medical and food needs of the victims. They reported widespread suffering and an acute need of emergency shelter and food.

Though the storm itself was dying down, the greatest danger was in the runoff waters on the highlands, which may keep the lower regions flooded for several days.

doubled the pressure of handling as the markets started slowly.

Price levels were low with cattle and hog offers down.

The estimated cattle supply of 29,000 was about equally divided between natives and Western grassers, the run of the latter being estimated at around 14,000. These were forced into markets by approaching poor pasture season.

Because the supply of choice fed steers and yearlings was comparatively small, prices were steady, but common and medium grades of cattle were weak to 25 cents lower.

Hogs were steady to 10 cents lower, the run of 19,000 head being burdening to the trade. Some pigs and lightweights were off more, there being a heavy supply of about 4,000 pigs in the open market. Live stock men said the current liquidation of pigs and immature swine indicated operations of a feed-saving nature because of high-priced corn. Potential winter pork supplies have been sharply reduced as a result of the current influx of pigs, they said.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW U.S. EMBARGO ACTION

Doubt Surrounds Future of Neutrality Law Voted by Solons

MINIMUM WAGES HIT

"No Man's Land" Still Exists After Ruling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—(UP)—Decision of the Supreme Court to review the power of congress to enact laws empowering the president to ban arms shipments to warring nations, today threw into doubt future neutrality legislation.

The court agreed to hear an appeal from a New York federal district court's ruling that Chaco arms embargo act was unconstitutional. Under this act the president embargoed arms shipments to Paraguay and Bolivia immediately after its passage in 1934.

The test suit followed indictment of the Curtis-Wright Aeroplane & Motor Co., and others for allegedly conspiring to sell 15 machine guns to Bolivia in violation of the em-of the most Glorious of Ziegfeld's Glorified Girls.

AT THE GRAND

With the twenty-one camels hired by 20th Century-Fox for "Under Two Flags," the picture now at the Grand Theatre, arrived an insurance policy that told a strange story.

If the camels bit or incapacitated an extra, the policy promised to reimburse them for $5,000 damages. But, if Ronald Coleman, Caudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen or Rosalind Russell was the victim, the studio and victim would collect $25,000.

AT THE CIRCLE

hargo. The lower court threw out the indictment on a demurrer.

Although not involved directly in this case, the neutrality act passed at the last session of congress empowers the president to prohibit shipments of certain arms and munitions to belligerents. Mr. Roosevelt invoked that provision in the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The court's decision on constitutionality of the act, nevertheless, is likely to affect the formation of further neutrality legislation.

Of equal importance in the formation of social legislation were decisions of the court in two cases affecting state minimum wage laws for women.

In that "no man's land" between state and federal powers, the court refused to reconsider its 5-to-4 decision of last spring that the New York minimum wage law is unconstitutional.

It agreed, however, to hear arguments on an appeal from a lower court ruling upholding a similar law in Washington state. Illinois and Massachusetts, which joined New York in an appeal for reconsideration, are expected to come to the aid of Washington state in defending its law.

By its action the court faces the necessity of establishing the right either of the state or the federal government, in the interest of public health and morals, to establish minimum wages for women or allowing the "no man's land" to remain.

Morgenthau Discloses Plan

Money Speculators Routed
Under New Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(UP)—The United States went on a "new gold standard" today under an agreement with Great Britain and France designed to aid further stabilization of world currencies.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in announcing the agreement, said it is designed to stimulate foreign trade and stabilize international exchange by

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

Proposing an amendment to the constitution of Ohio by amending section 3 of article XIII of said constitution so as to eliminate therefrom the additional liability of the stockholders of corporations authorized to receive money on deposit.

As resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house thereof agreeing thereto:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection, in the manner provided by the constitution and laws of this state, at the general election on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1936, a proposal to amend the constitution of Ohio by striking out of section 3 of article XIII thereof the following language, to wit:

"except that stockholders of corporations authorized to receive money on deposit shall be held individually responsible, equally and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts, and engagements of such corporations, to the extent of the amount of their stock therein at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares"; by correcting the punctuation of said section accordingly; and by adopting a schedule governing the going into effect of said amended section, said section as it would be when so amended and said schedule thereto being as follows:

"Section 3. Dues from private corporations shall be secured by such means as may be prescribed by law, but in no case shall any stockholder be individually liable otherwise than for the unpaid stock owned by him or her. No corporation not organized under the laws of this state, or of the United States, or person, partnership or association shall use the word 'bank'."

routing international money speculators.

The agreement will permit an exchange of gold for the conversion of paper currencies of the individual countries. The three nations will cooperate in establishment of exchange price of gold from day to day, Morgenthau said.

"This agreement," Morgenthau said, "represents a divorce from control of exchange markets from the few individual international speculators. Responsible governments of the people will now cooperate to assure a minimum of exchange fluctuation."

In agreeing to the proposal, Morgenthau said, the "big three" monetary powers each reserved the right to cancel it on 24 hours notice if any of them find it adversely affects internal prosperity.

"If, for example, we find the agreements and its operations are retarding recovery, we'll scrap it," he said. "England and France have the same privilege."

Morgenthau set the price of gold for today at $35 per fine ounce, plus one quarter of one per cent for handling charges. He will consult the other participants before announcing the price each day.

"It is a new gold standard, a way of doing business which has never been tried before," Morgenthau said. "In agreeing to the proposal we took into consideration first and always our internal prosperity."

The new plan, Morgenthau said,

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

I, GEORGE S. MYERS, Secretary of State of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original Senate Joint Resolution adopted by the 51st General Assembly of the State of Ohio on April 2, 1936, and now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State, and found to be true and correct. Said Senate Joint Resolution was filed in the office of the Secretary of State on April 4th, 1936, and proposes to amend section 3 of article XIII of the constitution of Ohio so as to eliminate therefrom the additional liability of the stockholders of corporations authorized to receive money on deposit.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 19th day of September, A. D. 1936.

GEORGE S. MYERS,
Secretary of State.

differs from the old gold standard in that it will permit the export or earmarking of gold only to and between government instead of private business institutions and traders.

The agreement carries a step further the recent tri-party "gentlemen's agreement" between the same nations for currency equilibrium to revitalize international trade and keep international currencies on an even keel.

Trade will be promoted and money speculators routed, Morgenthau said, through the placing of the three powers' combined $4,350,000,000 stabilization or equalization funds behind a pledge to exchange gold for their own currencies.

BULLITT TAKES OVER DUTIES IN FRENCH CAPITAL

PARIS, Oct. 13.—(UP)—Ambassador William C. Bullitt of the United States formally presented his credentials to President Albert Lebrun of France today.

Bullitt conveyed the personal best wishes of President Roosevelt and said it was his task to strengthen the good relations already existing between the sister Democracies.

The ambassador, who has lived off and on for many years in Paris, said that he came not as a stranger, but "as one who for many years has known the magnificent achievements of French civilization."

"I pledge your every effort," he said, "within my power to strengthen if possible the traditional friendship which has so long existed between our two countries."

COUGHLIN AND REPORTER MEET
IN ALTERCATION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 13. (UP)—Police intervened in an altercation between father Charles E. Coughlin and a newspaper reporter in a hotel corridor last night.

Father Coughlin had held a conference with Rhode Island officials of his National Union for Social Justice. He emerged into the corridor and found John Barry of the Boston Globe, there.

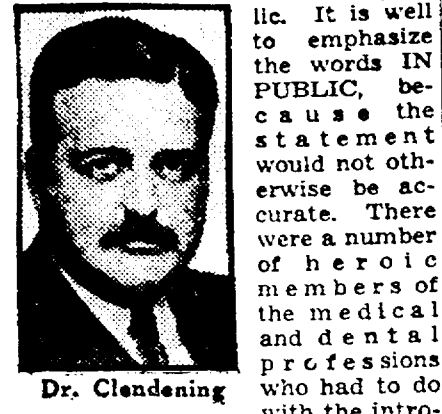

"You haven't any common decency," he said. "You were told this was to be a private meeting and yet you came along trying to stick your nose into it."

The priest stepped forward and jerked off the reporter's glasses. At that point Sergeant Arthur

How Ether Discoverer's Claims Were Disputed

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
YESTERDAY, as was only proper on the anniversary of the occasion, we gave an account of the first surgical operation done under ether in public.

Dr. Clendenening

duction of surgical anesthesia, and today we should follow up the ether story and say something of them also.

When Dr. W. T. G. Morton had demonstrated to the satisfaction of the critical audience in Boston the success of ether as a means of inducing insensibility during surgical operations, he went on to make some very disgraceful mistakes. He tried to patent it under the name of "Lethem," and, in fact, did not announce the agent as sulphuric ether until 1847, three years after its first trial.

In 1849 Morton petitioned congress for a monetary reward for his discovery. In this I think he was entirely within his rights. It was obviously improper to patent the discovery and make all the future unfortunates who had to have a surgical operation pay an extra fee for the privilege. But congress has before and since rewarded outstanding achievements, and certainly there was none more worthy than this.

The trouble was that Morton's claim to be the discoverer was contested first by Charles T. Jackson, and then by the friends of Horace Wells of Hartford. Jackson had undoubtedly put Morton on to the properties of ether. And although Jackson was not a doctor and never demonstrated it in a surgical operation, he did administer it to himself and induce insensibility, and the chair in which he sat to perform this experiment is still on view at Plymouth, Mass.

Partner Demonstrates Laughing Gas

Horace Wells had been Morton's partner in dental practice, and before Morton was interested in the subject at all, had demonstrated for him the use of nitrous oxide—laughing gas—during the extraction of a tooth. Wells' life, however, ended in tragedy: he gave the gas to a patient with a fatal result, and he ended his own life in 1848. But his friends claimed for him some of the honor.

There was a disgraceful squabble between Morton and Jackson, but in 1854 a bill proposing to appropriate $100,000 to the real discoverer came up for its final reading before the senate. Then up rose Senator Dawson. Then up rose that it had been brought to his attention that ether had been used by Dr. Crawford Williamson Long of Athens, Ga., in a surgical operation in March, 1842, four years before Morton had used it at the Massachusetts General hospital, and two years before Wells had used laughing gas. When these claims were substantiated the appropriation was allowed to die.

Of the authenticity of Dr. Long's claim there can be no doubt. He was a country practitioner, a graduate of the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania (1839). He had often seen the young men of his neighborhood use ether to get drunk on, and he had noted that although they bumped themselves and sustained many fairly severe injuries during these "ether frolics," they had no recollection of the injuries.

When a patient, Mr. James Venable, showed him a tumor on his neck and said that he would like to have it removed, but he just could not get up his nerve on account of the pain, Dr. Long proposed to give him ether, which he did in his office, before an audience, unfortunately, and removed the tumor without pain.

The proof of this date is the bill the doctor rendered Mr. Venable. The whole thing came to $2.

Dr. Long must have been a good doctor in many ways. My experience is that the best doctors charge the least.

NAZI LEADERS
MEETING WITH
ADOLF HITLER

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—(UP)—An assembly of Nazi Chieftains at Adolf Hitler's country home in Berchtesgaden, Bavaria, may preface a governmental announcement of international importance.

In the close secrecy possible in the intimate surroundings of a home, the leaders of the new Reich were in conference. By way of precedent, such a "family meeting" was held at Berchtesgaden the night before Germany startled the world by announcing compulsory military service, meaning a vast increase in the Reich's army, and breaking the Versailles treaty. Diplomatic and political circles in Berlin were keyed high because of the conference.

Colonies appear to be the chief present preoccupation of the Reich. Hence many observers believed that that from the meeting in Hitler's home would come some new pronouncement of policy aimed at regaining Germany's pre-war possessions overseas.

Italy-German cooperation was another likely subject. Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano of Italy is to visit Berlin soon to discuss the salient questions of interest to the two nations—the Spanish Civil war, the proposed Locarno pact and policy in southeastern Europe.

The report that Colonel Lindbergh will return shortly if satisfied he can escape publicity creates curiosity to know how they ever got the Boy Governor of New Jersey off the front pages.

PEACE AND ECONOMICS
HISTORIANS maintain that even though there had been no Sarjevo to kindle the flame, war in 1914 was inevitable. The way had been prepared, they say, by economic conflict—the basis of most wars—though usually disguised to provide some form of justification acceptable to a consistently gullible public. Sometimes there is a play upon national honor and pride. Often the grim business is pictured as a holy crusade, and at other times it assumes the aspects of defense against a predatory and ruthless aggressor. But basically the motives are usually economic.

This being the case, recent developments in Europe may, for a change, be considered with some degree of satisfaction. Mussolini's measures to bring the Italian lira into line with the American dollar, the English pound, the French franc and the currencies of other nations affected by revisions, serve to dull the edge of the sword that Europe has been grinding for the last few years. Devaluation has been followed by tariff slashes, notably in France, and lower tariff schedules should logically produce a stimulated flow of world commerce. When the nations are doing business with each other with freedom and with mutual profit, the danger of war is materially reduced. "Economic recovery," Anthony Eden says, "more especially the recovery of international trade, is an aid to peace." League of Nations experts are confident that economic approaches will help to solve the problems which are goading Italy and Germany to possible adventures abroad. While the full import of these economic developments, still in their early stages, cannot be estimated at present, there is every certainty that they are vital to the fulfillment of the hope that armed conflict will be made a remote possibility.

MEDICAL HERESIES
SOMETHING should be done, it seems, about the case of Dr. Milton A. Bridges, diet expert of Columbia university, who rushes in recklessly where for generations angels have feared to tread. With a heavy bludgeon and a complete lack of respect for cherished traditions, Dr. Bridges proceeds to demolish theories hallowed by time. He denounces the "freak diets of the food faddists" as a starvation course to physical destruction and insists that "there does not exist any fruit, vegetable, (meat, fish or other food which in itself is capable of reducing physical weights as much as one-thousandth of a pound." This in itself is not heretical, but when Dr. Bridges claims in all seriousness that an apple a day will not keep the doctor

CAMERMAN FOOLED LONDON
DES MOINES, IA.—This city is still talking about an unpublished incident which occurred during President Roosevelt's drought conference. It involved Governor Landon, a newspaper photographer and a picture.

Following the President's visit, the Des Moines Tribune, leading Republican newspaper, requested permission to take some exclusive pictures of Governor Landon. Approval was given and a photographer was dispatched to snap the Republican candidate.

He found him eating. The photographer set up his camera and took several flashlights, before Landon realized what was happening and motioned to him.

The Governor asked the cameraman not to snap him while eating, and also to give him the plates of the pictures already taken. The photographer handed over several plates—but they were blanks.

The exposed ones he hustled back to the Tribune office, where they were developed. One was an unusual picture showing Landon with his mouth ajar, about to envelope a large helping of food suspended on a fork, around which he had wrapped his whole fist.

Learning of the unconviction snapshot, the Landon entourage made strenuous representations that it be suppressed.

But although the Tribune is a Republican paper, the picture was published. Beside it was a picture of the President about to take a big bite out of a hot dog.

"DOG-FOOD" DICKINSON

Senator Lester J. ("Dog-food") Dickinson is making a very chary campaign for re-election. The white-crested Republican, who earlier this year fancied himself a G. O. P. presidential white hope, so far has been lying low and doing little talking.

Reason: Dickinson is highly unpopular throughout Iowa. His sulphurous fusillades against the Triple-A and against Secretary Henry Wallace, both warmly esteemed in the State, have aroused considerable resentment against him among both Republicans and Democrats. The fact that Dickinson, after violently berating the AAA on the floor of the Senate, ducked out on the roll-calls, has not tempered this hostility.

So, on the theory that if he doesn't show himself the voters will forget their peeve, Dickinson has been making himself scarce. Most of his campaigning has consisted of personal glad-handing.

Not so with his rival, Governor Clyde Herring. He has been showing himself in a big way, combining both glad-handing and stumping. A glib speaker and back slapper, Herring has been making hay while Dickinson kept himself under cover.

away and that a large Bermuda onion will not cure a cold, he is treading on dangerous grounds. Apparently, in this reckless age no traditions are sacred and it would not be in the least surprising to hear almost any day from the lips of some radical thinker that a drink of whiskey will not cure a snake bite.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:
Up to start another week of labor, feeling fit for the occasion and brightened by more sunshine. Color appearing in the trees and within another week my favorite time of the year will be here in all its glory. Give me a hilltop overlooking wooded country at this time of year and you may have all the old masters and the new ones as well. None of them ever has been able to catch the Fall spirit of the Great Master although the Hoosier Steel has come close to it a time or two. But paintings, no matter how beautiful, lack the warmth of the sun and the zest of the Autumn breeze and never yet has one given me that "delighted to be alive" feeling afforded by the real outdoors.
Out and about the town, meeting Mousie Sensenbrenner all aglow over a new discovery. Mousie was having a bad night of it, worrying over his own troubles, when he suddenly thought that for all the good his worrying was doing he might just as well worry over the troubles of someone else, and he did. "It's surprising how soon troubles can be forgotten if they are the troubles of someone else." "I fell asleep almost at once," he said.

Here's a note from Elizabeth Ruggles, known to all Pickaway countians as a public benefactor. On October 15 she is moving from 236 Palisades Ave., Santa Monica, Calif., to 425 South Oakland Ave., Pasadena, Calif. And a communication from my old friend Francis Durbin that he will visit the village Friday evening and address the Democratic assembly in Memorial Hall. Francis is of the fiery type and an orator well worth hearing. He is behind Roosevelt and Davey and will have plenty to say about the opposition. Have known him for years and have enjoyed all of his speeches. I have heard, although frequently disagreeing with him. There is no doubt that he will entertain his audience.
Noted more painting under way on Main street, this time at the Grand Girard drug store and the Howard block. There goes L. M. Butch, the jeweler, almost himself again after a long illness and here comes Emerson Martin, the floor-covering man. Passed the time of day with Tom Renick, the Republican chieftain who seems optimistic enough, and had coffee with Ernie Weiler, head of the Pickaway County Democratic club.

There go Paul Adkins and William Radcliff, Paul a staunch Democrat and Bill a Republican of increasing note. Two brilliant young attorneys who view national affairs in different lights. No wonder so many folk are puzzled by affairs political.
Another week end past with its heavy toll of life and limb. And right after publication in this column of an article on highway courtesy. Maybe no one read it except myself, and me driving an automobile with a broken bumper and crumpled front fender.
A busy day that passed all too soon and then home for a quick dinner before dividing an evening between the mayor's recreation committee and the American Legion. Home late, a raid on the refrigerators that netted little except the running gears of a roast chicken, and then to bed to try out Mousie Sensenbrenner's worry idea. It didn't work so well the first try.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET

READ THIS FIRST:
By winning a $500 slogan contest, Alix Carey came a long way in the advertising agency where she is employed and enlists the personal interest of John Sayre, young president of the agency, whom she secretly admires. Coming to New York following her friends of Kathleen Crosby and her cousin, Kim Freston, Alix and Sayre begin to mix business and pleasure. They play golf and he invites her to a house party. Alix is surprised to find one of the young residents of the latter leaves the house party ahead of the other guests, pleading a headache. Suspecting that John cares for her, Alix avoids seeing him and meanwhile entertains her old sweetheart, Bill Borden, who is visiting New York. Then Alix finds John waiting for her at her apartment. Alix begins to see John frequently, but he does not make love to her. She finds Carol in the role of hostess again at a dinner party. The next day Carol calls Alix after finding her compact in John's car, where she had dropped it the night before. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)
CHAPTER 19
"WHO'S calling Miss Carey?" the operator at the agency asked. "Really? Miss Cushing?" Carol said coldly. Such impertinence these business girls had. Must one give one's name when calling a Miss Carey?
You'd never have recognized the same voice when Alix came on the phone. "Hello, Alix?" it said companionably.
"Yes, it's Alix."
"This is Carol Cushing," Alix said. She knew and didn't sound overwhelmed with joy. "I wanted to have a word with you last night but you know how hard it is at a party. . . . In fact, I've been trying to find time all winter to take you up on your offer to show me how the wheels go around at your place. Can you lunch with me tomorrow?"
There was the briefest pause and then Alix said, "I think so. I have only an hour. Would you like to come here at one?"
Alix dressed with unusual care the next morning and girded herself for the luncheon. Obviously Carol wanted something. It was a good sign. Alix felt that she had the advantage by that move.
At 10 minutes of one Carol floated in, Carol in a daring Paris hat, a cape of silver foxes, a corsage of large camellias pinned on the black coat she wore under the cape.
When Alix saw her, she applauded silently. Carol looked so perfectly the part of a society girl who meant to draw comparisons between her own orchidaceous self and a working girl.
A page boy brought Carol to Alix's office.
"This is the first thing to see," Alix said when they had greeted each other with exactly the right amount of cordiality. "I'll show you the other departments if you like but I'm afraid it won't be very dramatic."
"Won't it? Then, let's go and see John before we go. Perhaps he will take us to lunch."
Alix said, "I can't take any such liberty."
Carol said, "Then I will." She picked up the telephone and asked the operator to put her through to Mr. Sayre. "Tell him, it's Miss Cushing."
Cushing. I'm in Miss Carey's office.
She waited a moment and then: "Did you tell him it was Miss Cushing?"
She rang off and said, "He's in conference. Poor boy, he works terribly hard, doesn't he?"
Alix suppressed a wry smile. They lunched at a modest place. Alix's suggestion.
She let Carol take the reins of conversation. Carol talked and talked and Alix waited knowing there was some point to the whole thing.
"I'm beginning to think you were right last fall when you said you couldn't understand why I would envy you," she said after a while arriving at her point. "Poor you, Alix. Wouldn't you like to be going south during this dreadful weather?"
Alix said it might be a nice idea.
"I'm going to Palm Beach Monday and John is going to try to get down for a few days. I really wouldn't have a good time if he didn't come. Everybody thinks I'm silly to worry about him the way I do. But why shouldn't I?"
Alix said she didn't know.
"I've been doing it for years ever since John and I. . . . The sentence trailed away leaving Alix to finish it in her own mind.
"Oh!" Carol opened her pocketbook as an after thought and took out Alix's compact. "Is this yours? I picked it up in the car."
"Thank you. It is," Alix said coolly and retrieved it. A long scrutinizing glance passed between them. A glance that said, "Alix, I know you were in his car the night of the party but it won't do you any good. John is mine."
Alix's glance said, "I don't know whether John is yours or not but we, at least, understand each other and I think you are putting on a great big bluff."
Alix put herself in the other's place. She thought: If I had known John all my life, if my social life paralleled his, I wouldn't go out of my way to impress a girl in the position I'm in. I wouldn't dare risk his wrath by untruths or inferences. Therefore, Carol must be on sure ground. Perhaps—who knows?—she may be doing this to save me from myself. But until I know from John himself that what she infers is true, I will be careful.
She remembered the old game played between men and women since time began, the game of jealousy. The next time she had a date with Kim, she asked him to call for her at the office and hoped that John would see them together.
He did.
Another time, she asked Kim to come to late tea when she knew John was calling for her for dinner at seven o'clock. She had never asked John for tea. Kim was sweet, sorrowful because Kim had to go, a little more affectionate than usual to Kim.
John saw it and wondered with troubled mind what it meant. It was not unlikely that she might be in love with the boy. She held him off, yet he had been certain

Come, months, come away,

Mr. , Mrs. J. E. Miller
Observe Anniversary

Reception Conducted at Finley Jones
Residence

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller of S. Washington street, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, Monday.

A reception in their honor was held at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Finley Jones, E. Union street. Callers were received during four periods, two to three, four to five, seven to eight, and 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Two hundred relatives and friends called during these hours to pay their respects to the aged couple.

Ten weeks ago Mrs. Miller suffered a broken hip and has been confined to her home ever since. She is just now able to sit up part of the time.

The color scheme used was gold. The home was a veritable bower with flowers sent by interested persons. Members of the Sunday School class of the Evangelical church to which she has belonged for many years, and members of the church and some neighbors, presented the couple with a purse of $75. Numerous other gifts were received also.

A musical program entertained callers. Those taking part were: Miss Minnie Wilkerson and Miss Patsy Ruth Harris of Ashville, in piano solos; and Misses Rose and Genith Carothers in several vocal selections.

The Rev. Ellis Radebaugh, former pastor of the Evangelical church, now of Greensburg, and Harry Zackman, son-in-law of the honored guests, gave some interesting facts on family history.

At the regular meeting of the Monday club, held last evening in the trustees' room of the public library, the first three papers, prepared for the study of Scandinavian literature, were read.

Mrs. Alice Hartwell, introduced by Miss Irene Parrett, told of the Mythology and Folklore of the early period. The explanatory myth, and the esthetic myth, the recital of the deeds and lives of heroes and gods, are the two different kinds of myths. Folklore are the legends of the superstitions of the seasons, Sun, Moon, of customs and beliefs.

Miss Jeannette Reichelderfer explained the terms Eddas and Sagas. The Eddas, or lays, celebrating the deeds of gods and heroes, the Sagas or narrations of local history and family life, are the oldest collection of Norse literature.

Concluding the Program, Miss Parrett gave a review of Scandinavian literature from the close of the Saga period to the notable works of today.

SCHMIDT TO CONTINUE OPEN OFFENSE IN GAME AGAINST NORTHWESTERN

LES RETURNS TO ACTIVE WORK IN FIRST STRING

Defense for Passers to be Stressed This Week at Ohio Stadium

WALDORF DRILLS 'CATS

Several Minnesota Men Hurt at Nebraska

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13.—(UP)—

If Coach Francis A. Schmidt of Ohio State has any intention of altering his offensive style because of the setback at the hands of the University of Pittsburgh, he hasn't tipped his hand yet.

The Buck squad opened its preparation for the initial Big Ten game of its schedule with Northwestern Saturday in practically the same way it drilled for the New York U. and Pitt contests.

Schmidt hurriedly dispelled any ideas that he would fall back on a basic running attack and shelve, at least temporarily, the passing attack which Pitt smothered effectively.

The Bucks first drill for the Northwestern game was primarily one devoted to passing. Schmidt endeavored to devise means whereby his lightweight quarterbacks, "Tippy" Dye and Nick Wasyluk, would have more chance to get off their aerial bombardments, but otherwise made no changes in the attack.

Gales Returns

Charley Gales, the husky varsity tackle, who was injured in the N. Y. U. game and Augie George, a first line tackle replacement, who was hurt in an early season scrimmage, rejoined the active squad yesterday. Both will be ready for Saturday's contest.

With a few minor exceptions the Bucks escaped from the Pitt melee in good physical trim. Jim McDonald, the husky Springfielder who whose play stood out for the Bucks, favored an injured knee, and Wasyluk was handicapped by a bruised back.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 13.—(UP)—

Lynn Waldorf considers his Wildcats "decided underdogs" against Ohio this Saturday, but today he drilled his squad stiffly on offense, and worked to perfect new plays planned for the Buckeye type of defense. Waldorf was pleased with work of Soph reserves against North Dakota State.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 13.—(UP)—

Tryouts for the quarter-back berth on the Wolverine varsity continued today with Lou Levine, Bill Barclay, Chris Everhardus and Ferris Jennings as the foremost candidates. Scrimmage revealed the squad in improved mental condition, since they know no one expects them to upset the Gophers.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 13.—(UP)—

After a layoff for regulars who played against Purdue, the Badgers swung into preparation for Notre Dame today with Harry Stuhldreher concentrating on defects revealed in the Boilermaker tilt. Stuhldreher expects his squad to be at full strength for the Irish.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—(UP)—

Rested by their first letup of the season yesterday when a short chalk talk replaced practice, the Gophers started preparations for the Michigan game Saturday. With exception of minor injuries to Ed Widseth, Lou Midler and Bud Wilkerson, the squad came through the Nebraska clash unscathed.

JACKSON HOUND IN EARLY LEAD AT STATE DERBY

JACKSON, Oct. 13.—(UP)—

"Lum," a hound owned by Oscar Bennett, Jackson sportsman, held the lead in the derby race of the 17th annual Ohio Fox hunt here today.

"Lum" scored 240 points in the first case to hold an advantage over the field of 44 dogs that survived the first day's running. A record breaking list of 52 dogs started the chase.

In second place was "Mac," the property of E. S. McClure of Portsmouth, with 170 points. "Dard," owned by Mrs. John Hartley of Amesville was third with 140 points. "Belle," another McClure dog, was fourth with 135 points.

A three way tie existed for fifth place "Avon Heap" and "Trouble" from the kennel of Dan C. Meeks of Coshocton, and "Speckle King," owned by George Lantz of Slocum Station, each had 120 points.

The hounds started the second day of the event shortly after dark. The derby will be concluded Wednesday. A three day all-age race starts Thursday.

SCHOEN IN LEAD IN OHIO SCHOOL SCORING CONTEST

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—(UP)—

The individual state scoring lead today had changed hands and for the first time since the start of the campaign Mike Rodak, Western Reserve's stellar sophomore, wasn't at the top of the pack.

Brilliant individual performances in early season contests against Findlay and Bowling Green netted Rodak 32 points, but he hasn't scored in his last two games against Akron and Ohio Wesleyan.

Rodak dropped to third place as Norman Schoen, the versatile Baldwin-Wallace halfback, garnered two touchdowns against Syracuse to bring his total for three games to 43.

Harley Magee of Marietta passed once against Capital to score Rodak also. Magee has a total of 36 points.

Three new names were among the 10 leading individual scorers this week. They were Ray Zeh of Western Reserve; Charles Giebell of Marietta and Jack Richards of Marshall.

DAIRY QUINTET SWEEPS THREE FROM COCA COLA

Several of the city's best keggers got their batting eyes in shape Monday evening as the Circle City Dairy quintet dropped the Coca Cola three straight games in the City League. The dairy crew rolled 2,539, the best total recorded to date, against 2,393.

Maloney topped the field with 565, a 229 tallied in the second game. Others over 500 were Heistand, Watts, Sensenbrenner, and Mader.

The scores:

TIGER ELEVEN PREPARES FOR BEXLEY BATTLE

Carlton Smith to Bring Fast and Clever Team For Friday's Game

LOCAL SQUAD CAPABLE

Lindsey and Arledge May Win Starting Posts

Coach Jack Landrum's boys are expected to play football to the best of their abilities Friday when Carlton Smith and his Bexley crew invade the local field. The game will be the last at home for quite a while. All games played to date have been in the Circleville backyard.

Landrum would rather defeat Bexley than any school in the league; he believes his boys are capable of the task if they play the kind of football they know how.

Bexley performs with grace, precision, confidence, and sports a superb passing attack that will be a threat to the Tigers from the time the whistle blows. The Red and Black came out of the Westerville mudfest in good shape physically, and full strength will be hurled at the Columbus suburbanites providing no accidents occur in practice the remainder of the week.

A little juggling is possible in the Tiger starting lineup—Red Lindsey and Gene Arledge performed so well last week that they may get the call against the invaders. Other positions are expected to be the same.

Bexley will bring a powerful pair of ends, and a strong line from tackle to tackle. Hamilton, son of Don Hamilton who refereed here last week, plays center for the Bexleyites. In the backfield are Nash, Herbert, Miller, and Chester.

Officials for Friday's game are Harold E. Wise of Ohio U., referee; Kenneth Robbins of Ohio U., umpire, and Ray Coleman of Ohio Wesleyan, head linesman.

OHIO WESLEYAN TO BE HOST TO SCHOOL PUPILS

Ohio Wesleyan university will act host to scores of high school pupils Saturday when 'High School Day' will be observed by the school.

Activities of the morning will include a tour of the campus, visiting each department of the university.

The afternoon program will be predominated by the football game between the Ohio Wesleyan team and the Xavier college "eleven" of Cincinnati.

A souvenir program of the day's activities entitled "A Day at College" has been prepared for the event.

Seniors of the high schools of Ohio who are selected by the principal will be guests of Ohio Wesleyan that day.

The purpose of the day is to acquaint high school pupils with college life and to aid the students in selecting their course of study.

Seniors of Circleville high school who will be guests of the university have not yet been selected. Hi-Y club recently voted to attend the football game in a body.

WOOSTER'S SCOTS TO PLAY AKRON DESPITE OHIO RULE

WOOSTER, Oct. 13.—(UP)—

Wooster college will play its game here Saturday against the University of Akron as scheduled.

At a special meeting of the faculty committee on athletics last night it was decided not to accept the alternate choice of cancelling the contest because of Akron's avowed intentions of using five players ruled ineligible by the Ohio conference.

About This And That In Many Sports

Chuck Klein Quoted

IF CHUCK KLEIN is correct, Jimmy Collins won't be worth much to the Cubs as a hitter.

Chuck says no left-handed batter can hit well in Wrigley Field because of the background and the fact that the right field wall is too far away. Collins, just obtained in the Warneke deal with the Cards, is a switch hitter, batting right-handed against southpaw pitching.

Avery Brundage says the reason why two of the Olympic boxers were sent home was that they were collecting souvenir cameras worth about 200 marks apiece. It seems the German constabulary found out about it.

Our favorite name among Big Ten footballers this year is that of Iggy Mescie, Northwestern's sophomore halfback.

Yale, among others, has pulled the ancient "Statue of Liberty" play this year. The Elis got away with the old maneuver against Cornell.

Madison Spirit

One of the most improved football teams in the country this year is Wisconsin. The play still is a bit ragged, but the spirit is 100 per cent. A mark must be credited in the book to Harry Stuhldreher, ye olde Horseman. Syracuse statisticians have figured that Vannie Albanese, All-Eastern fullback in 1935, gained almost a mile in total yardage last season.

The New York Giants start spring practice February 19 in Havana. Not soon enough, did someone say? Sam Leslie went to St. Louis when the series ended to undergo an operation for a torn abdominal muscle.

Mrs. Dempsey gave Jack a piece of her mind for boxing three rounds in Rochester. Jesse Owens will enact a detective role in the movies. How would you like to have that chap shadowing you?

Cissell Moves Back

Freddie Welsh, former world

lightweight champion, is doing stand-ins in the movies. Clark Griffith says Joe Di Maggio is as good as Tris Speaker ever was.

The list of players drafted by the majors contains a name that offers a bit of romance. Chalmers Cissell, 10 years ago he was sold to the White Sox for $120,000.

he never was satisfied at Chicago, was traded to Cleveland and finally bowed out of the major league picture at Boston.

but he came back at Baltimore. and the Athletics snatched him at the draft price of $7,500.

maybe next year Mr. Mack can sell him to Mr. Yawkey for $100,000 or so.

They're talking of Princeton's Jack White as an All-American halfback, which sounds reasonable enough even with the season still a baby.

Syracuse suffered a serious blow when Ray Recknack, star forward passer, sustained a broken hand during practice.

It seems that Tennessee has had a football player named Derryberry ever since I can remember.

Woodrow, the current Derryberry, is the third of his name.

UNBEATEN GRID ELEVENS TESTED NEXT SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(UP)—

The nation's list of major undefeated, untied football teams — now at 27 — gets some severe jolting this week.

Six games — four in the east, one on the Pacific coast and another down in Dixie — pair elevens with clean slates. They will reduce the group of "perfect teams" to at least 21 by nightfall Saturday.

Should any of those games end in ties or should any of the remaining 15 elevens with perfect records encounter trouble from their opponents the list will be even smaller.

The battles involving top undefeated, untied schools are: Duke-Georgia Tech; Southern California-Washington State; Army-Harvard; Duquesne-Pittsburgh; Marquette-Holy Cross, and Navy-Yale. With the 1936 campaign only a month old, the east holds sway over the clean slate ranks. All other sections but the southwest, which turned out some of the best teams in the country last year, boast perfect teams.

The east has twelve — Army, Harvard, Duquesne, Pittsburgh, Fordham, Villanova, Manhattan, Holy Cross, Navy, Princeton, Temple and Yale. The mid-west boasts seven — Indiana, Purdue, Marquette, Michigan State, Minnesota, Northwestern and Notre Dame.

Here's how easy it is:

1. Decide what you want to say in your ad. Then write, leaving out unnecessary words.
2. CALL 782 if you have a phone or drop by the service desk, Herald office. Read your ad to the ad-taker. She will help you with it, perhaps shorten it, and then will read it back to you for O. K.
3. That's all... except to sit back and wait for results which won't be long in coming because nearly everyone reads the Herald Classified Ads.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

A DIFFICULT HAND

IN A RECENT duplicate game nearly all North and South pairs bid and made game easily at hearts. Why my partner made me play a difficult 4-Spades I do not know, but only at spades was the bidding unusual and the strategy interesting, even if the final result made no gain over the simpler heart contract. South dealt, and passed, being too weak for a satisfactory opening call. Neither side was vulnerable.

At our table, bidding went: West, 1-Club, second hand; North, 1-Diamond; South, 1-Spade; West 2-Clubs; North, 2-Hearts; South 3-Hearts; West, 4-Clubs; our most profitable procedure would have been to collect 500 points for doubling West; North, 4-Spades, ending bidding.

The opening lead was the K of clubs. As soon as dummy was tabled it was fairly plain that West held six or seven clubs, with no side quick trick values except the missing K of hearts, to bring the values up to 2½ quick tricks for an opening bid on a single suiter. Doubtless the 6 adversely held trumps were divided 4-2 or worse, with East holding the majority of them. That player probably held 4 or more diamonds. Game prospects looked blue. One thing was certain, West must not be allowed to ruff, while East must be forced to ruff, so that his spades could be managed.

West next led his top diamond. Dummy's 8 covered. East played the 9. My K won the trick. Dummy ruffed a club. The J of spades was led. East covered with the Q. The K won. It would not do to ruff my last club. Dummy's last trump was needed to lead through East. The 9 of hearts was led and held the trick. The 5 of hearts was led. Again West played low. Dummy's 10 won the trick, leaving West's K unguarded. Dummy's last trump was led. East played low, showing that West held a higher trump, so the Ace was played, dropping West's 9, and rendering him incapable of ruffing diamonds, which would ruin game chances. Dummy's Ace and Q of diamonds took the two next tricks, affording me an opportunity to discard my last club. East ruffed the Ace of hearts, giving defenders their second trick. The last three cards held by each player are shown below.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKER FLAYS NATIONAL DEBT IN MONDAY EVENING TALK

THOMAS OF IOWA SAYS COUNTY'S SHARE IS HIGH

Election Race Named Most Important Battle in Twentieth Century

75 ATTEND MEETING

Rallies to be Held in Two Towns This Week

Circleville's share of the national debt will be approximately $2,264,000 by the end of the fiscal year, Roscoe P. Thomas, of Fairfield, Ia., representative of the Republican national headquarters, told local leaders Monday night at a meeting in the party headquarters.

Mr. Thomas said these figures were based on an average population of 8,000 persons in Circleville and the national debt was estimated at $36,000,000,000.

He estimated the county's share at $7,924,000 using a population of 28,000 persons. Ohio's share was estimated at $1,881,015,251 with its population of 6,646,697.

Mr. Thomas, a lawyer, pictured the campaign as a "battle between Americanism and new dealism." "You are in the midst of the greatest battle of the 20th century at the present time," Mr. Thomas said. "Battles of the World War were fought across the ocean to save something of the civilization in those countries. Today, and no one knows how long, United States is the only real democracy in the world. What has happened in countries over there may happen here."

Three Branches Provided

"The men who drew up the constitution knew it was wrong to put the power of government in one group. They provided three branches of government and frequent elections. Important legislation passed by the legislature in the last year did not originate in that group. Elect members of Congress who will really represent the people instead of acting as rubber stamps."

The speaker spent considerable time flaying taxes pointing out 62 per cent of all federal taxes were "hidden." He said there were 31 hidden taxes in an alarm clock, 44 in a suit of overalls or a house dress.

"You have as good a government as you vote," the speaker continued. "Elect people who think for themselves and are not told what to do by a brain trust. Employment is a problem not to be tampered with, but solved. Relief should be distributed by the county government. You are able to take care of other affairs satisfactorily."

Mr. Thomas predicted the election of Landon would inspire farmers, and business men to expand with assurance and confidence in the government. "His election will bring a new spirit in business," the speaker said. "No money ever put into a tax collection till ever made prosperity."

Blanks Distributed

He distributed application blanks for the Republican Volunteers of America being organized throughout the country.

Fred Tipton, Williamsport, was named president of the county organization, and Eleanor Jones, secretary. Men and women vice presidents were named in each county precinct at a meeting held in T. A. Renick's office following the meeting in party headquarters.

Announcements were made rallies will be held in Kingston on Thursday night and in Five Points on Friday night. About 75 attended the meeting.

ROADS BLOCKED TO CATCH TRIO

tions. It was in Indianapolis that Rivers was killed when he and other officers attempted to trap the gang as they sought to force a door to treat a wounded gang member.

In Illinois, police prepared for their possible return to Chicago hangouts which they used just before their capture last spring. The best marksmen of the detective force, warned that a capture would mean a gunfight, patrolled districts frequented by hoodlums.

standing by his friends that caused him to break with the Allen county organization four years ago. He resigned from the Democratic executive committee and through an error on the part of his supporters, made when he was in Washington on business, he failed to qualify as a candidate for the central committee. His slate of Durbin candidates for the central committee met with failure at the polls. "That finishes Durbin," joyfully proclaimed his enemies.

But such was not the case, for Durbin set about organizing another executive committee and it was recognized by the state organization. The election "victors" rapidly faded out of the picture and Earl Ludwig was designated as county leader. Later Durbin and Ludwig split and in the battle that followed Durbin again emerged victorious, later gaining unanimous committee endorsement for state office.

Asks No quarter
Durbin is known throughout his district as a politician who fights for "the little fellow." And when Durbin fights he really fights. He knows no half-way measures, expects no quarter for himself, but frequently gives it.

Durbin is an attorney with a large and profitable practice, but many of his clients come from the more unfortunate class and he is to be seen in city court fighting for nothing almost as frequently as he is to be seen in the higher courts.

Durbin is of the "fire-eater" school of oratory and when he appears in Circleville Friday night his listeners may certainly anticipate that he will lambast the Roosevelt foes in a large way and be highly entertaining as he does so.
